On the move

Arapahoe County's Child Support Enforcement relocates to Aurora to help clients reach self-sufficiency

AURORA, Colo. --- Arapahoe County's Child Support Enforcement will relocate to Aurora June 17, positioning the program to further collaborate with the Human Services' medical and financial assistance programs as well as its Children, Youth and Family division.

Child Support Enforcement, currently located at Arapahoe County's Justice Center in Centennial, will move to the County's CentrePoint Building, 14980 E. Alameda Dr. Suite 38 in Aurora (conveniently located near public transportation). The office will be closed June 16 due to the move.

The move will position Child Support Enforcement to partner with other Human Services programs to more efficiently and effectively maximize each client's ability to attain self-sufficiency and take another significant step toward breaking the cycle of children growing up without the financial and emotional support they need and deserve.

"Human Services will benefit from the improved ability to collaborate and problem solve, and more readily coordinate service that is inherent with increased face-to face interactions," said Commissioner Rod Bockenfeld, who serves as the liaison to the Human Services Department. "Ultimately, we'll be able to provide seamless delivery of services and truly a one-stop experience for the customers of our communities who have the greatest need."

Child Support payments should still be mailed to: The Family Support Registry, PO Box 2171, Denver CO 80201. For more information about Child Support Enforcement visit www.co.arapahoe.co.us or call their new phone number at 303-752-8900 starting June 17.
