Students glimpse into their future at College Resource Fair

Arapahoe County Colorado State University Extension partners with Aurora Family Resource Center to provide College Resource Fair in Aurora

Aurora, Colo. --- In response to the community's request to learn about opportunities available to their children after high school, Colorado State University Extension - Arapahoe County Youth Development and the Aurora Family Resource Center will host a College Resource Fair 5:30-7:30 p.m., April 10 at Hinckley High School, 1250 Chambers Road in Aurora.

The Fair is open to youth and their parents and will provide an opportunity to learn about higher education options such as local colleges, trade schools and scholarships. Translation at the Fair will be provided for Spanish speaking participants.

"It's never too early to start looking toward the future," said Kimberley Jones, 4-H Youth Development Coordinator for Arapahoe County. "Higher education and career exploration should be an option for all youth and we hope that this event demonstrates the wide variety of options youth can choose from."

The two organizations have set a goal of providing a College Resource Fair at every high school in Aurora during the next year.

Any high schools in Aurora wishing to host a resource fair should send an e-mail to kjones@co.arapahoe.co.us. To learn more, call Jones at 303-738-7945.
